PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Independent higher education deserves your support during the Bicentennial Year! This is important not simply because the tradition goes back more than 200 years (Harvard was founded in 1636), but also because it is necessary for the well-being of our nation.

It is essential that something as important as higher education not fall under the exclusive support (and control) of the government. The main emphases of government (at the local, state, and federal levels) change from time to time. What is regarded as good (or patriotic!) in one season may be thought of as mistaken, evil, or unpatriotic by another generation of political leaders. If higher education must depend exclusively upon the support of political leaders, it opens up too many possibilities for control of our universities and colleges by those with an "ear to the ground" philosophy.

Our essential freedoms depend upon a continuing balance between strong independent institutions and strong governmentally-supported colleges and universities. Our history shows that extremes and excesses have been corrected through this balanced relationship. Independent institutions are often saved from unwise economic and social pressures by strong competition from state institutions. Governmentally supported colleges and universities owe part of their essential freedom to competition and philosophical support from strong independent institutions.

Lycoming College is a good example of the independent college. It has traditionally emphasized the "liberal arts," those studies which help to liberate a person from ignorance and prejudice and which give every student strong exposure to the traditions of human freedom and culture. We have had a warm relationship to an important religious and moral tradition, and yet our history shows that the institution has welcomed students and faculty of both sexes from a wide variety of religious, cultural, and racial backgrounds. And this was being done long before current emphases in the federal and state governments became politically fashionable!

The years ahead will not be easy for higher education. They will probably be even more difficult for the independent sector than for the tax-supported institutions. And so— independent higher education deserves your support during the Bicentennial Year!

HAROLD H. HUTTON
President of the College

The academic calendar for the 1976 Special Sessions has been modified as follows:

May Term will begin May 4, the Tuesday following the 1976 Commencement, and will terminate on Friday, May 28. Summer Term will begin on Monday, June 7 and extend through Friday, July 16.

Lycoming and WACC Activate New Program

Lycoming College and the Williamsport Area Community College have agreed on a tuition exchange plan which will implement for the two colleges the Student Enrichment Semester (SES) program established among seven area colleges and universities two years ago. The SES program was established to expand the academic and life opportunities for students and to increase their access to opportunities in specialized programs and courses not available at their home institutions. It is also intended to reduce program duplication and promote a spirit of cooperation among regional institutions for sharing resources. Institutions participating in the SES program are: Bloomsburg State College, Bucknell University, Lock Haven State College, Lycoming College, Mansfield State College, Pennsylvania State University, Susquehanna University and the Williamsport Area Community College. One of the difficulties encountered by the SES program was the different fee structures at participating institutions, particularly between private and public institutions. The new agreement between Lycoming and WACC solves that problem for these two colleges.

This arrangement is intended to permit students from either college, with the approval of their respective advisors and deans, to enroll in courses at the other institution. The consortium is being implemented at the beginning of the second semester in January on an experimental basis. If it proves to be useful and acceptable to some of the students at both institutions, and to the academic administrators involved, there is hope that it can become an ongoing cooperative arrangement between the two Williamsport colleges.

The program between Lycoming (an independent college) and WACC (a public community college) is the first of its kind in Pennsylvania. It is a model that will be observed carefully by the Pennsylvania Department of Education to determine whether other similar programs might be established elsewhere in the state. Even though the agreement was consummated only two weeks prior to the beginning of the Spring Semester, there are already five students enrolled. It is anticipated that the number of students participating in the program will average approximately thirty to forty each semester beginning with the Fall semester of 1976.

ALUMNI AND PARENTS OF STUDENTS PLEASE NOTE:

The Registrar wishes to remind all parents and alumni that under present law all requests for official transcripts must be in writing and signed by the person whose transcript is being requested. We regret the inconvenience, but phone requests cannot be honored.

United States Congressman ROBERT W. EDGAR '65 enjoyed reminiscing with Professor Walter G. Melver and members of the Lycoming Choir. Bob recalled having been a member of the Choir for a period of time during his freshman year on campus.

When the Lycoming College Concert Choir went to the Washington, D. C., area the week end of January 9-11 for its initial tour of the academic year, the choristers were representing the Keystone State in one of the first of thousands of Bicentennial events which will mark the year-long celebration of the nation's 200th birthday.

The choir, under the direction of Walter G. Melver, presented concerts in three churches during the brief tour, but it was the program Sunday morning, January 11, in the Capitol Hill United Methodist Church, Fifth and Pennsylvania Avenue, District of Columbia, which will help open the Bicentennial Year celebration.

The Rev. James P. Archibald, pastor of the host church, invited the choir to sing at the church as Pennsylvania's representative in the second of a series of 50 Sunday services planned by the church during the year to honor all of the 50 states. The services will recognize the states in the order in which they were received into the union.

In addition to the choir's signal honor of being invited to represent the state, the Rev. Robert W. Edgar, a Lycoming College graduate and a member of Congress, was guest speaker at the service. The entire Pennsylvania Congressional delegation was invited to attend.

The Rev. Mr. Edgar, a graduate of Lycoming in 1965, is a resident of Broomall, Delaware County. He was serving as chaplain at Drexel University when he was elected in 1974 to represent the 7th Congressional District in a major upset by a Democrat in a district with a 2 to 1 Republican registration. He is now on leave of absence from his position as chaplain at Drexel.

The choir also presented a concert Saturday evening in the Colesville United Methodist Church, Silver Spring, Md., and concluded the brief tour with a concert Sunday evening in the Methodist Church in Stewartstown, Pa.

TWO TO RETIRE

Walter G. McIver

Louise R. Schaeffer

Two Lycoming College faculty members have announced their retirement effective at the end of the current academic year.

Professor of Voice, WALTER G. McIVER is retiring after 30 years of service to Lycoming. He holds degrees from Westminster Choir College, Bucknell University, and New York University, and served as choral director of the Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra for 12 years before joining the faculty at Lycoming in 1946. He has been the director of the Lycoming College Concert Choir for the entire 30 years in addition to his teaching duties. During his tenure as director, the choirs have made appearances throughout the United States and Canada and twice toured the British Isles.

He has also been an active participant in church and community chorale organizations, and shortly after arriving in Williamsport organized the Williamsport Civic Choir, a choral group which has produced numerous major concerts throughout the years. He has received a number of honors for his work in the community, college and church, including civic awards from the City of Williamsport. He was also chosen "Young Man of the Year" in 1948 by the chamber of commerce.

DR. LOUISE R. SCHAEFFER, associate professor and head of the Department of Education, is a native of Williamsport and a graduate of Lycoming. She will complete 14 years of service to her alma mater when she retires at the end of the academic year. She received the master of arts degree from Bucknell University and the doctor of education from The Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Schaeffer taught in the public school systems in California, Williamsport, and Loyalsock Township before joining the Lycoming faculty as instructor in education in 1962. She is active in church, community, and professional organizations and has served on the executive board of The Episcopal Church Women, as a Girl Scout leader, and as secretary of parent-teacher groups.

THREE ALUMNI ACTIVE IN BICENTENNIAL PLANS

Three Lycoming alumni have accepted positions of leadership on the Greater Williamsport Bicentennial Commission. Robert E. Ruffner '63 is serving as commission chairman, and John G. Hollenback '47 and Doris T. Heller '54 were recently appointed co-chairmen. Miss Heller is also planning and will direct a pageant entitled 'Susquehanna', which will be presented at Bowman Field on July 20, 21 and 22.

The calendar of events recently released by the commission lists a variety of displays, lectures, concerts, art exhibits, and other programs in the communities, schools and churches throughout the area

Warrior Gridders Fashion Big D Into Number 1 National Ranking

Lycoming's outstanding football season was climaxed in December when the Warriors were officially recognized as the Number One defensive team in the nation among small colleges.

Final official statistics released by the National Collegiate Athletic Association show that the Warriors not only finished first in total defense among Division III colleges but were also among the top eight teams in all three additional defense categories compiled by the N.C.A.A., including rushing, passing and scoring defense.

The Warriors, coached by Frank Girardi, won the total defense championship by a substantial margin of 133.1 to runner-up Alfred's 148.9, finished second in rushing defense with 68 yards, fifth in pass defense with 65.1, and eighth in scoring defense by allowing only 7.5 points per game.

Lycoming compiled a 6-2 record in 1975 for its best won-lost mark since a 7-1 in 1958, and the tough Warrior defensive unit was primarily responsible for the fine showing. They turned in two shutouts, and allowed no team to score more than two touchdowns, including conference champion Albright, the team which advanced to the N.C.A.A. post-season playoffs. Albright was held to two touchdowns in a 14-0 loss.

Led by a starting forward wall comprised of Steve Weigle and Frank Kindler at ends, Andy Fedore and Jerry Butler at tackles,

Mike Prowant at middle guard, and supplemented by linebackers Randy Parsons and Jim Tkach, the Warriors made life miserable for opposing runners and passers. They sacked the quarterback 29 times and their aggressive play caused opposing runners to fumble 37 times, 22 of which were recovered by the Warriors. They also blocked three punts. Parsons, Weigle, Prowant, and Butler were all named to the Middle Atlantic Conference All-Star Team.

The Warrior defensive secondary comprised of Jim Rich, Joe Klebon, Dwight Stilwell, and Tom Rice all did an equally fine job of both containing the opposing passing game and stopping any backs who may have penetrated the forward line. The secondary foursome intercepted 8 passes and successfully deflected 58 aeriels from the hands of opponent receivers. Rich, who had three of the interceptions, was also named to the conference all-star team.

And if Coach Girardi is smiling with anticipation about the 1976 season, it's because late next summer should find 9 of the 11 defensive unit starters reporting for preseason practice. Only Rich and Klebon are seniors.

The fifth-place finish in pass defense was nine yards back of the 56 compiled by the top team, Washington and Jefferson. California Lutheran was first in rushing defense with 62.4 yards, while Millsaps College was first in scoring defense with five. Ithaca College was a close runner-up with 5.1.

WARRIOR CAGERS IN 3 TOURNAMENTS; OTHER TEAMS BREAK FOR HOLIDAYS

The Warrior basketball team participated in three tournaments during the combined Christmas and semester holidays while the remaining varsity winter sports teams were taking a break in the schedule which ranged from three to five weeks.

With the season already nearing its midway point, the cagers of Coach Dutch Burch have a 4-7 mark. However, the record has been compiled in the toughest half of the schedule with most of the losses coming against Division I and II teams.

The Warriors roared off to a 3-0 early-season record with wins over Bowie, Allentown, and Juniata before dropping games to Navy and Scranton. Lycoming began the three-tournament tour in Waltham, Mass., by losing a thrilling 113-110 overtime game to host Bentley in the Bentley Invitational Tournament. The Warriors also lost to Suffolk, 90-83, in the consolation game before moving on to the Loyola College Holiday Tournament in Baltimore the following week, where they bowed to Frostburg State, 76-72, and to host Loyola, 60-44.

The Warriors finally halted the six-game losing streak in the opening game of the Washington and Lee Classic by edging Salisbury State, 80-79, on a last second field goal by Ray Riggins. Although Lycoming outscored Washington and Lee from the field, 35 field goals to 29, in the championship game, the host Generals capitalized on 38 trips to the foul line while the Warriors were shooting only 10, and Washington and Lee captured the classic championship with a 78-75 win.

John DiMarco, Bill Conroy and Jeff Billman have been the most consistent scorers for the Warriors, while Conroy and Billman are leading in rebounding.

With the toughest part of their schedule behind them and 13 games remaining, the Warriors could still end the year with a winning percentage. All the remaining games are against Division III teams, including 8 Middle Atlantic Conference contests.

KEIPER NAMED ASSISTANT WRESTLING COACH

DOUGLAS KEIPER '68, associate dean of student services, has been named assistant wrestling coach. Doug was one of Budd Whitehill's outstanding wrestlers for four years and later served as wrestling coach for two years at Newark Valley (N.Y.) High School where he taught before joining Lycoming's administrative staff in 1970. Doug received his master's degree from Penn State in 1972.

WRESTLERS ELECT REITER AND BORJA CO-CAPTAINS

LLOYD REITER and STEVE BORJA, veteran members of the Lycoming College wrestling team, have been elected co-captains of the Warriors for the 1975-76 season, it was announced by coach Budd Whitehill.

Reiter, a senior from Bayshore, N.Y., wrestles at 150 pounds. Borja, a junior from Woodlyn, competes at 167. Both had excellent records in dual meet competition in 1974-75 to add to their lifetime marks. Reiter was 8-3-2 with 5 pins to give him a dual meet record of 24-10-5 in three years of intercollegiate competition. Fourteen of the wins have come on falls. Borja's 5-3 record last year with 2 pins was identical to the mark he compiled as a freshman in 1973-74.

CAMPUS NOTES

RICHARD ERICKSON, Astronomy/Physics Department member, was a guest at the University of Pennsylvania and Swarthmore College on November 13 and 14 where he spoke on the topic "Galactic Structure and the Local Stellar Velocity Distribution."

ROBERT FALK, Theatre Department chairman, has been selected as the Regional Director of Region 8 of the Theatre Association of Pennsylvania.

The American Astronomical Society's traveling exhibit, "Birth of the Universe," will be on display in the College Library from February 9 through 22. Sky shows related to the theme of the exhibit will be presented by DR. RICHARD R. ERICKSON of the Department of Astronomy and Physics on Sunday, February 15 at 2 and 3 p.m., on Wednesday, February 18 at 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday, February 22, at 2 and 3 p.m. Both the College Library and Detwiler Planetarium are in the Academic Center. The exhibit and the sky shows will be open to the public without charge.

PROGRESS REPORT

KENNETH E. HIMES, secretary of the Presidential Selection Committee, reports that the committee has completed its major screening process. More than a hundred applications have been received and reviewed and the field narrowed to about twenty candidates. An intensive investigation of these candidates--which will reduce the number to four or five--is now under way. We will keep you posted on the committee's progress from time to time.

Four panelists, including three from the faculty at Lycoming along with the mayor of New Bedford, Mass., participated in a colloquium on "Fiscal Problems of Cities" on December 10.

Participating in the panel, which emphasized the financial problems of New York City, were John A. Markey, mayor of New Bedford; MS. DIANNE HERMAN, instructor of political science; JAMES P. WAITE, instructor of business administration, and DR. ROBERT W. RABOLD, professor of economics.

A talk on the subject, "UFO's, Past and Present," was given on December 2, 1975, by DR. WILLY SMITH, chairman of the Astronomy and Physics Department, to the Montoursville Rotary Club.

MARK YOUR CALENDAR, PLEASE!

One of the important events of the Bicentennial observance will be an address entitled "Freedom, the United States and the World Environment" by Dr. Norman A. Graebner on February 24 at 8 p.m. in Room D-001 of the Academic Center.

Dr. Graebner is project director of Freedom, Then, Now, and Tomorrow, a Bicentennial program designed to provide Pennsylvanians with a chance to examine the nature of freedom in American society. He has served on the faculties of Iowa State College, Oklahoma College for Women, and the University of Illinois. Presently he is Edward R. Stettinius professor of modern American history at the University of Virginia and distinguished visiting professor of history at Penn State.

The public is invited to hear Dr. Graebner and to attend a reception in his honor in Pennington Lounge following his address.
